The end of the beginning - VCCCAR Director Rod Keenan

30 June 2014 marks the formal end of the five-year funding agreement between the University of Melbourne and the Victorian Government that underpinned the agreement between the VCCCAR university partners: Deakin, La Trobe, Monash, Melbourne and RMIT universities to collaborate in climate adaptation research.

It has been quite a journey over the last four and half years as we built up our activities, some key achievements include; 14 interdisciplinary research projects, 20 think tanks, five Annual Forums, and engaging international leaders in climate science and adaptation on Victorian climate change issues.
